My almonds are roasted according to an old German recipe. The coating contains water, some sugar (I use as little as possible and much less than the original recipe calls for) and spices. I use no oils, butter, or fat of any kind, therefore this product contains no bad cholesterol.

Just as delicious and nutritious are my recently added hazelnuts.

Redhawk Vineyard, first planted in 1979, is on a small southeast facing slope that is perfectly suited for growing richly flavored, spicy Pinot noir and Chardonnay grapes.

These grapes, fermented in small lots, and given extended aging in French oak barrels, consistently make estate wines with full-flavored intensity not often found in Oregon wines. Although we are best known for the cultish "Grateful Red," we also produce small amounts of Pinot gris, and highly rated Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, and Cabernet franc. Our popular cartoon labels, "Chateau Mootom" and "Great White" have both received "Worst Label Awards" from the prestigious Decanter magazine. Look for additional cartoon labels to be released in the Spring of 1993.

The original Valley View Winery was established in the mid-1880s in Jacksonville by Peter Britt—a man of many trades. Valley View soon became one of the largest wineries on the west coast, but stopped production upon Britt's death in 1905. In 1971 the Wisnovsky family moved to southern Oregon from the east coast and planted 26 acres of grapes in the beautiful Applegate Valley. We produced our first wine in 1976 and decided to honor Britt by reviving the name of Valley View. Because the Applegate Valley is one of the warmest valleys in western Oregon, we concentrate on Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Chardonnay, and Sauvignon Blanc. We have won numerous national and international awards for both our wines and our special artist labels which honor the Peter Britt Music Festival.
